To Whom It May Concern:

I am sorry to hear that the FCC is even thinking about limiting Satellite Radio broadcasting. Satellite Radio provides goods and services that their paying customer is willing to pay for and I don't feel that the FCC should restrict this service. Satellite Radio provides their customer the opportunity to choose the service that Satellite Radio provides, when the service best serves the customer. Whether it would be the type of music, weather, or traffic reports, this is a service that conventional radio has not been able to provide the paying customer.
